The year is 2095 and a serious space crisis is looming. The Earth Defense Forces (EDF) have agreed to assist their alien allies after they were attacked by the notorious Primers. With alien technology guiding their work, the EDF has managed to help fend off the Primers until a hostile alien force emerged from hyperspace, extending its presence further into human space. The EDF is on alert and ready to defend humanity, and must remain on their toes with very little time before the worst of the threat is unleashed on the planet. The only thing standing in their way is the Primer threat. You are an elite EDF soldier with the job to save your planet by destroying the aliens. Although the aliens left most of the EDF facilities functional for your use, keep in mind that many of the guns are antiquated and many of the power-ups need to be customized. The aliens only left one life form for humanity to use as a weapon: The Primer. The only time to run away is when the aliens are catching up. Build your arsenal and muscle your way to victory. A different take on the popular retro-shoot 'em up genre and the side-scrolling, two-dimensional shooter. Go head-to-head with as many of the Primers as you can. Key Game Features: A new weapon for every mission!Over 30 new weapons to help you fight the Primers. New vehicles and power-ups are always in stock. Challenge the entire Primer fleet! 30+ new Primer missions. Over 150 of them in all. Armory management as usual. Customise your load-out for every mission. And the more you play, the higher you level. A touch and go design. The touchpad is your best friend. You can rewind, cycle and complete each section. A button allow you to move on to the next round. Glorious pixel art. All the characters and enemy models have been hand-drawn to be as accurate as possible. You can easily pick out the Primers and the others. Lock and load. All the power-ups have been built in. You can switch your guns and power-ups in mid-mission. This is not a'shoot-em-up'. Lock and load with guns that are better than what the enemies will have. No hostages. You kill every single one of them. And you lose when you run c9d1549cdd

Why: The suprisingly catchy and organ heavy "Rusted Moss" is a lovely piece of seventies swinging rock. Why: The singer, guitar and bass play all on the same chord. The sizzling guitar solo could give you blisters...it is probably all over 25 mph - save your derriere. Junior Walker Why: Choppy, folky and energetic this will fit in with dance and funk bands. (best played with a cardboard shield so it doesn't get your hand dirty.) The Jez Warry Orchestra The Dr Pack File Why: A real breath of fresh air as it's a novel style of music without a focus in any particular musical genre. The direction of the band is give or take even a little bit of funk. Funtastic Inc Why: This all powerful and explosive funk band has really begun to take shape as they mix a 70's soul sound with modern funk grooves and god knows what else they may insert into the mix. The Bluebells Why: The first of three rolling drum snares from the East into our midst. The 70's feel of the album is marvellous but also original and down to earth. Olivia Balch Why: The retro tone of the super clean stylings of the Californian showgirl is a perfect fit for the 70's. A truly engaging and stylish attitude towards the era. More Radical Stuff Comments Advantages Disadvantages A brilliant album worth your time Recently I picked up a load of CDs off my mate who was going through a bit of a musical slump. Usually she purchases latest releases by bands and singers that are widely popular and namechecked in the popular culture, but recently her sense of humour and musical fashion has altered dramatically. The first CD I picked up was a compilation of 30 second loops of each unique band's unique riff. The first 10 tracks I listened to were the most musical tracks on the second CD, Distortion 101, which started with a load of stupid riffs by Devo and ended on an absolutely enormous disco bass loop that sounded like a rollercoaster ride at Blackpool. Anyway, after that I just start picking out the blatantly obvious bands for my mate and listening to them properly, so obviously I passed up the X Factor who are cool enough and the in
