Q: How to use a Google spreadsheet custom function from a browser script I was browsing to Stackoverflow to find a solution to a problem I have with a custom Google sheet functions and I found this question: Which explains pretty much how to create custom functions and export them as.gs file for use on Google Forms. I'm pretty sure the answer to my problem is related to this, but I just can't figure it out and I can't really find an explanation for a reason that makes sense. This person is using it to manipulate Google Sheets data, and he is calling the custom function from a web browser. I can't find a working solution which does the same thing. This is how the.gs file is calling the function: `function myFunction() { var src = ""; var result = UrlFetchApp.fetch(src).getContentText(); var parsed = HtmlService.fromText(result).getContent(); Logger.log(parsed); }` This is how it should call the function, but it can't find the function: `function setTitle(){ var spreadsheet = SpreadsheetApp.getActive(); var sheet = spreadsheet.getSheetByName('Hemligheten'); var title = sheet.getRange(2,1).getValue(); SpreadsheetApp.flush(); // Logger.log("setTitle"); var src = "";`

I was given an example  $f(x)$  where the domain was  $[0,5]$  and the range was  $[0,2]$  but it was a supplementary, so I didn't go through its solution. What does this mean? Does it mean the domain is from  $0$  to  $5$  and the range is from  $0$  to  $2$ ? Thanks A: What you've been given is not a function.  $f:[0,5] \rightarrow [0,2]$  is a function. You could also write it as a power series centered at  $0$ :  $f(x) = \sum_{k=0}^{\infty} a_k x^k$ . The formula you've been given is a relation between the coefficients of the power series:  $f(x)=ax^2+ax+a^2=\sum_{k=0}^{\infty} a_k x^k$  and the domain is  $[0,5]$  and the range is  $[0,2]$ .
