You can probably get a pre-generated zip file from the vendor. Ontario Premier Kathleen Wynne says the province will have to take the same financial hit as Toronto, if her government backs a controversial proposal to impose a major increase in property taxes on Toronto's rising real estate market. The solution is to be put forward by the Ontario Real Estate Association, she told reporters on Thursday, and will be presented to the province's finance minister at an OREA public hearing in Toronto on Monday. "We will have to take on some of the cost that has been absorbed in Toronto," Wynne said, but she added it would be a "very small percentage of the total" when compared to the city's contribution to the province's tax base. Asked what that percentage would
