Players can be found using the Personality section in the back of the game. By playing a number of games, they will have a "personality" that will reflect their playing style. For example, your favourite player will be reflected in the game using their statistics. The way players run – or lack of, in certain situations – is where that Personality will shine. Attacking: Players can be found in 4 main attacking positions: -Front Forward: Sending the ball into the big area around the penalty box. -Centre Forward: Attacking the ball from the middle of the pitch, either moving up the flanks or into the box. -Dribbler: Using the ball as much as possible. -Number 10: Trying to split the centre back pair and get the ball on the floor. Holding the ball is important for dribbling, as the player must get behind the defence with the ball. Defending: Players can be found in 4 main defensive positions: -Centre back: As the centre back will be needed to cover the pitch as much as possible, they need to be able to run out from defence into midfield to help their team defend. -Half-back: As the half-backs are positioned behind the midfielders, the half-backs are meant to be the de-facto midfielders. -Centre back: The centre back has the responsibility of shielding the back four. -Full-back: Using their agility and movement to be able to whip the ball into a team-mate. Holding the ball is important for defending. Keeping it tight and sitting deep is important. Making the Team: Making a team out of 4 players is different from making a team out of 10 players. In order to make a good team, you need to have some players in very specific roles. Having 8 attacking players in a squad is not necessarily a good thing – their style of play needs to match their playing style. They have to be more open and more creative than a squad with 4 or 5 players who can play all over the pitch. In order to see this you must play the two people in the hole. One of them is in the 10 role and the other one is in the drib
