3.0/5 Copy and paste this to your web browser to try out the game. Thank you for reading my review. – Tarnished Alchemist –Q: Accessing PL/SQL Package Variables in Stored Procedure In Oracle PL/SQL, we can define variables inside a package body and then access them inside a stored procedure or function. We can't do the same with object types. For example, a tables table type defined in package body cannot be accessed within a stored procedure. How can we define variables of object types in PL/SQL package body? A: What you are saying is not possible. There is no way of storing data in packages that you can access in another package. If you want to store data in your package, you need to define global variables in your package header or inside a user defined type. Q: Regex giving wrong match // CHECK if // // all suffixes match // a regex `// CHECK if //` // using bff6bb2d33
